VOL. VII, NO. 7 JULY 1953

THE BULLETIN FOR LIBRARIES IN SPANISH

In response to numerous requests from libraries and institutions in Spanish-speaking Member States, the Seventh Session of the Unesco General Conference adopted a resolution providing for the publication of a Spanish edition of the Unesco bulletin for libraries from July 1953 onwards. The present issue is therefore the first to appear in Spanish.

The Spanish edition, unlike the English and French editions, will be printed in Havana and distributed by the Unesco Western Hemisphere Office there, and will be produced with the interests of Latin American countries particularly in mind. It will contain a selection of the items in the English and French editions' news and information sections, library news of particular interest to Spanish-speaking Member States, and the last three chapters of the Bulletin: Publications Wanted, Exchange, and Free Distribution.

It is hoped that this Spanish edition will result in the development of increased exchange relations between the libraries in Member States, and bring to libraries in Spanish-speaking countries international news and information of interest to them.

(410) UNESCO AND LIBRARY DEVELOPMENT IN LATIN AMERICA

by C. V. PENNA, Unesco Regional Office for the Western Hemisphere, Havana.

Since the Second General Conference of Unesco met in Mexico City in 1947, the educational, scientific and cultural needs of the countries of Latin America have received increasing international attention. In each of the Latin American Member States of Unesco the signs of greater participation in the work of the Organization are developing steadily.

Unesco's scheme for the promotion of libraries and documentation services is effective and well conceived for the purpose of making the public aware of the value of library services and giving practical backing to the ideas of the Latin American librarians themselves.

Unesco has, moreover, realized that it would be very difficult, if not impossible, to carry out its own programme for the advancement of education, science and culture without the support of adequate library services. It has accordingly paid special attention to the improvement of these services, and has gone so far as to appoint a specialist to the Havana Regional Centre for the more effective planning of the requisite programmes in Latin America.

DEVELOPMENT OF PUBLIC LIBRARIES

To secure the benefit of the views of experts from every part of the world and to give its programmes a clear international character, Unesco has organized seminars and conferences, from which Latin American librarians have derived much profit. Its first attempt of the kind was the Unesco-IFLA International School for Librarians at Manchester in 1948, attended by 50 experts including representatives of Latin American countries. Later, at Malmö in 1950 the problems of public libraries were discussed.

However, there was no doubt that what was needed for librarianship in the American countries was a conference to deal specifically with their particular problems, and this need was met by the conference on the Development of Public Libraries in Latin America, held at São Paulo in 1951.

A practical step to assist Latin America by, as it were, putting theory into practice is the Public Library Pilot Project which Unesco is organizing at Medellín in co-operation with the Government of Colombia. The essential idea of this project is to have a library working under ideal conditions—i.e. with adequate staff, equipment and finance—as a practical demonstration of the quality of library services and of the vast potentialities of the public library as an instrument of mass education.

BIBLIOGRAPHY AND DOCUMENTATION

While public library services are essential, more specialized services for scholars and research workers are no less so; the Libraries Division has given this matter its attention. To ascertain the true state of bibliographical services, in 1950 Unesco held in Paris a conference on the Improvement of Bibliographical Services at which the special bibliographical problems of Latin America were dealt with by bibliographers from that region; work has since proceeded along the lines which this conference laid down. An International Advisory Committee on Bibliography (see page E 89) has been set up to meet the need for a consultative body advising on problems in this field, and is collaborating with Unesco in the compilation of its work plans.

With the co-operation of the Mexican Government, Unesco has organized a Scientific and Technical Documentation Centre in Mexico City; this Centre's information, photostatic and translation services are highly valued by research workers, while librarians know and appreciate the quality of its Bulletin.

So great has been the Centre's success that Unesco, at the request of the Brazilian Government, is now organizing a National Bibliographical Centre in Rio de Janeiro on a large scale; and a similar service will be introduced at Montevideo in the near future.

EXCHANGES OF PUBLICATIONS

The lack of library collections adequate to meet the needs and desires of every class of reader is a problem arising less from any lack of bibliographical material than from illogical distribution. This, at least, is Unesco's considered view; and the Organization's aim, reflected in the stress laid on the service for the exchange of publications, is to provide libraries with machinery that will enable them to exchange publications and duplicate copies for works which meet their specific needs.

The Libraries Division attaches great importance to encouraging the creation and organization of efficient national exchange centres, the principal means employed to that end being the Handbook on the international exchange of publications, the Unesco bulletin for libraries, and a continuing series of recommendations to governments and librarians.

CONCLUSION

In presenting this first number of the Bulletin for libraries in Spanish, we send a cordial message to all Spanish-speaking librarians. The best tribute we can pay to specialists engaged in improving and perfecting library services is to enable them to be associated with our own work programme.

NEWS AND INFORMATION

UNESCO AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS

(411) UNESCO AND OAS CO-ORDINATE THEIR ACTIVITIES IN LATIN AMERICA

Since December 1950, when the Organization of American States (OAS) and Unesco signed a General Agreement, the two organizations have been closely in touch with each other concerning all projects of common interest in their respective programmes. In order to study ways of establishing an even more effective co-ordination and avoiding duplication of activities, the OAS-Unesco Joint Committee on Co-ordination held its first meeting from 17-20 February 1953 at the Pan American Union (Washington). At this meeting a number of recommendations were adopted concerning all aspects of the Unesco and OAS programmes in so far as they interest the Western Hemisphere and particularly Latin America. These recommendations will be submitted subsequently to the Executive Board of Unesco.

Among subjects covered by the recommendations were: the possible preparation of directories concerning Latin American education, the co-ordination of scientific and social science activities, the translation of Latin American literature, the preparation of a Spanish edition of the International copyright directory, and the best means of bringing the Universal Convention on authors' rights and the Agreement on the importation of educational, scientific and cultural materials to the attention of Latin American countries with a view to their becoming parties to these agreements.

The two organizations will also co-ordinate their activities in the field of librarianship.

The OAS will assist in the preliminary planning, provision of material for, and organization of the Unesco public library project in Medellín, Colombia (see Bulletin, vol. VII, no. 2/3, item 75), and will submit a plan for the use of the library in workers' education to be incorporated into the project.

The OAS will help to provide information on national and regional bibliographical activities in Latin America for the national bibliographical centres which are to be established in Brazil (the exact address of this has not yet been fixed, but information may be obtained from Dr. H. Coblans, Unesco Consultant, c/o Conselho Nacional de Pesquisas, avenue Marechal Câmara 350-6º andar, Rio de Janeiro) and Uruguay (this will be set up at the National Library, Montevideo). It will also assist in determining the standards of bibliographical procedure to be followed by the projects. It will further help the Regional Centre for Unesco in the Western Hemisphere in finding means of publishing national bibliographies produced by the national bibliographical groups.

The two organizations will study the possibility of establishing two training centres, using existing local organizations as far as possible, for the training of persons from countries in which instruction in librarianship does not exist, and for advanced specialized instruction for those who have already had the benefit of local training. In particular, they will study, for 1955-56, the possibility of establishing, through a joint project, a Latin American regional centre for the training of librarians, to be located in Havana, Cuba. It may also be possible for the two organizations to sponsor a conference of professors of librarianship, possibly at the same time as the Third Assembly of Librarians of the Americas in 1955-56.

The OAS will support Unesco, and especially the Regional Centre, in efforts to stimulate the international exchange of publications and the operation of national exchange centres, by supplying information on multiple copies of publications offered by libraries and special lists of institutions offering regular exchange of publications, to be included in Unesco exchange manuals. It will also supply information, to appear in the forthcoming Directory of libraries in Latin America, concerning publications available for exchange by the libraries listed in the Directory.

The OAS will contribute material, in Spanish, of interest to readers of the Spanish issue of the Unesco bulletin for libraries, and the two organizations will study the possibility of including in their 1955-56 programmes a project for the joint publication of a specialized journal on librarianship.

The OAS will also provide the International Federation for Documentation with information on microfilming and photocopying services available in Latin America, and disseminate information in Spanish on microfilming equipment.

(412) INTERNATIONAL LIBRARY AND ARCHIVAL LIAISON COMMITTEE

Representatives of five international organizations in the field of libraries, documentation and archives met at Unesco House on 24-25 April 1953 to set up a permanent liaison committee. The five organizations concerned were the International Council on Archives (ICA), the International Federation of Library Associations (IFLA), the International Federation for Documentation (FID), the International Association of Music Libraries (IAML), and the International Organization for Standardization (ISO). The purpose of the Committee is to ensure in these fields of work the same close association between non-governmental organizations as already exists in the natural and humanistic sciences and other areas of Unesco activity. The Committee's chief task will be to provide means for contact between the member organizations in the promotion and co-ordination of conferences, round table discussions or expert meetings and for the general promotion of international understanding through the development of libraries, documentation and archives.

The draft constitution of the Liaison Committee was tentatively adopted, subject to ratification by the bodies concerned. The Bureau of the Committee is to be composed of representatives of the three general organizations, namely IFLA, FID and ICA, with a fourth member representing the specialized bodies. If the number of these exceeds five they will provide two members of the Bureau. Each organization has one vote in the General Assembly, but no resolution is valid if it is opposed by the unanimous votes of the general bodies. For the first year the officers will be as follows: ICA—the President; IFLA—the Treasurer; FID—the General Secretary, while IAML will represent the specialized bodies.

The Committee tentatively agreed that IFLA should undertake to organize a world conference in 1955 where matters of interest to the other member bodies could be discussed within the framework of a general theme which it would decide.

The Committee received from the Director-General of Unesco a request for advice and suggestions on the possible need of an international convention for regulating the microfilming of library and archive materials.

(413) UNESCO PUBLICATIONS ON SCIENCE AND RACE

In order to make possible a deeper and more thorough study of each of the many aspects of the question from the scientific point of view, Unesco has published a series of works by leading experts in many countries, under the general heading The Race question in modern science. Thus far, nine volumes have been issued.

In Race and culture, Mr. Michel Leiris, in charge of research at the National Scientific Research Centre, and staff member of the Musée de l'Homme, Paris, shows that the differences between groups of human beings derive essentially from their history and conditions of living.

Mr. Otto Klineberg, Professor of Psychology, Columbia University, New York, shows in Race and psychology that the net result of research is to the effect that innate racial differences in intelligence have not been demonstrated. He offers a thorough and careful study of the method of using intelligence and other tests to appraise differences between individuals and groups.

In Race and biology, Mr. L. C. Dunn, Professor of Zoology at Columbia University, presents in simple, clearly-understood language a survey of the present scientific concepts based upon the revolutionary discoveries in genetics. From this new perspective, the dominant fact is human unity. The races appear as subdivisions of the human species, separated only by differences which are relative, subject to change, and of little importance in terms of the hereditary characteristics common to all of mankind.

In a study of Racial myths, Mr. Juan Comas, Professor of Anthropology at the Mexican School of Anthropology, demonstrates the error and falsity of the pseudo-biological arguments which the theorists of racism invoke to cover their secret and maleficent purposes.

Mr. Arnold M. Rose, Professor of Sociology at the University of Minnesota, U.S.A., tracks down The Roots of prejudice. He analyses the principal causes of such prejudice: for example, personal advantage to be gained, ignorance of other human groups, the "superiority complex" and lack of knowledge of the baleful consequences of race and other prejudices.

The author of Race and history is Mr. Claude Levi-Strauss, a leading ethnologist, who is Director of Studies at the École Pratique des Hautes Études, Paris. He shows that the superiority acquired in the field of technical progress by the civilization of white people over the civilization of coloured people does not constitute an argument in favour of race prejudices. Equally remarkable results have been achieved in other domains by other civilizations. During the course of history, fortunate combinations of circumstances have caused human progress in a given region of the planet and at a given period, through the meeting of very different cultures and the pooling of their original contributions.

In The Significance of racial difference, Mr. G. M. Morant, a British scientist, points out that, considered in accordance with the methods of biometry, these differences show many overlappings. But although they may be significant from the physical point of view, there is no proof that the same holds true for mental characteristics.

Mr. Kenneth L. Little, of the Department of Social Anthropology of the University of Edinburgh, makes clear in Race and society, that history, rather than race, is the principal cause of differences between cultures and the degree of civilization of the peoples of the world. "Taking the long view, therefore," says Mr. Little, "we can look forward with some confidence to the day when race and colour distinctions will have ceased to plague mankind."

Finally, The Race concept: results of an enquiry contains the 1951 Statement on Race, and comments and observations made on it by a number of leading scientists.

Other works of the same kind are being prepared on such subjects as the contribution of Jewish thought to universal civilization, and on the position of various religions in relationship to the race question.

(414) UNESCO CLEARING HOUSE SECURES DISTRIBUTION OF 21,000 BOOKS AND PERIODICALS

In the second six months of 1952 the Unesco Clearing House for Publications assisted in the direct distribution of more than 12,000 publications to 391 libraries in 55 countries. An estimated additional 9,000 volumes were distributed by independent action on the part of libraries as a result of offers made through the agency of the Clearing House in the same period.

These publications were provided in the form of gifts and exchange offerings by governments, libraries, publishers and private individuals. The work of stimulating and facilitating such exchanges is part of the continuing function of Unesco and part of its regular publication Clearing House services.

Countries which received most publications through exchanges were the United Kingdom, Germany, the U.S.A., Austria, India, Italy. Special gifts were made to libraries in underdeveloped countries receiving assistance as part of the Technical Assistance programme of the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies.

During the same period a sum of $885 was provided in direct grants by the Clearing House to libraries and institutions in 16 Member States, to enable them to defray transport costs of publications which they had offered for free distribution. In 1953 and 1954 the Clearing House will continue to give such assistance up to the limits authorized by the Unesco General Conference.

(415) SEVENSMA PRIZE (1955)

The International Library Committee of the International Federation of Library Associations (IFLA) has fixed the following subject for the competition for the fourth Sevensma prize (1955): Structure and organization of a union catalogue in relation to its utilization. The essay must analyse, for a given period, the kind of requests received by one or more regional or national union catalogues in relation to the character of the libraries included and that of the users, e.g. the proportion of new and old works, of books and of periodicals, and of books and periodicals in the different branches of science, etc. The essay can deal with the whole problem or be limited to a special aspect, e.g. periodicals.

The competition is open to any member of an association affiliated to the Federation who has not yet reached the age of 40 on the date of entry (31 December 1954). The jury will determine the amount of the prize, which will not be more than 1,000 Swiss francs. In certain circumstances it might be divided in two, and two sums of not more than 500 Swiss francs awarded.

Full details concerning the scope of the essay, languages which can be used, etc., can be obtained from the Secretariat of IFLA, c/o United Nations Library, Geneva, Switzerland.

(416) INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON PHOTOGRAPHY

The Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain, which celebrates its centenary in 1953, will hold an International Conference on the Science and Applications of Photography from 19-25 September 1953. Among the many aspects of the science, techniques and applications of photography to be discussed the following are of direct interest to librarians and documentalists: photocopying, photomechanical processes, and photographical literature, including abstracting and documentation.

Further details concerning the Conference can be obtained from the Honorary Secretary, Royal Photographic Society, Centenary Conference, 16 Princes Gate, London, S.W.7.

(417) SALE OF UNESCO BOOK COUPONS

Readers are requested to note that, although Unesco Book Coupons are on sale at most of the Unesco Science Co-operation Offices, the Manila (Philippines) and Montevideo (Uruguay) offices do not sell them.

PROGRESS IN BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SERVICES

(418) INTERNATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON BIBLIOGRAPHY

By decision of the Seventh General Conference, and of the Executive Board of Unesco meeting in April 1953, an International Advisory Committee on Bibliography composed of 12 members has been created and will meet annually. At least four members of the Committee will be selected from among the most qualified persons in the field of general bibliography, each from a different country. Two members will be chosen from among those participating in Unesco's bibliographical activities, while not more than six will represent the non-governmental organizations working closely with Unesco in bibliographical matters.

The Acting Director-General of Unesco invited the following persons to meet in Paris at Unesco House from 20-23 April 1953 in order to constitute the Committee and to consider the bibliographical programme of Unesco:

Mr. Pierre Bourgeois, President, International Federation of Library Associations; Dr. L. Brummel, Director, Royal Library, The Hague; Mr. Julien Cain, General Administrator, National Library, Paris; Mr. Verner W. Clapp, Chief Assistant Librarian, Library of Congress, Washington; Mr. J. E. Cummins, Member, Consultative Committee for Documentation in Natural Sciences; Mr. F. C. Francis, Keeper, Department of Printed Books, The British Museum, London; Miss Elvira A. Lerena Martinez, Director, School of Librarianship, Montevideo; Mr. J. Marouzeau, President, International Society for Classical Bibliography; Mr. J. Meyriat, General Secretary, International Committee for Documentation in Social Sciences; Mr. Arne Møller, President, International Federation for Documentation; Mr. Adnan Otuken, Director, National Library, Ankara; Dr. S. R. Ranganathan, University Library, Delhi.

Observers were present from 12 international governmental and non-governmental agencies.

Among the many recommendations presented to the Director-General were those on the subject of a Guide to national bibliographical information centres, an Annual report of progress in bibliographical services in all countries, the Unesco Handbook for the international exchange of publications and several contracts for the preparation of special bibliographical studies and reports.

The Committee agreed to appoint national corresponding members in every country where this could be arranged, and referred certain problems to the attention of these national members.

The Committee elected as its officers for a three-year period, Mr. Julien Cain (President), Dr. L. Brummel (Secretary-General) and recommended that the officers meet later in 1953 to consider the bibliographical programme of Unesco for the years 1955 and 1956.

The full report of the Committee may be secured on application to the Libraries Division, Unesco.

The August / September issue of the Unesco bulletin for libraries will contain a more detailed account of the recommendations made by the Committee to the Director-General of Unesco.

(419) DEVELOPMENT OF BIBLIOGRAPHIC CLASSIFICATION

Librarians using the "Bibliographic classification" of H. E. Bliss are advised that an attempt is being made to form a link between users of this classification. This link may take the form of an occasional bulletin in which modifications or expansions of the classification might be made available to others. The author of the classification and its publishers have welcomed the idea and the H. W. Wilson Co. is prepared to issue an occasional bulletin of news, at a reasonable rate, provided that at least 20 or 30 librarians will subscribe to it.

Librarians interested in this matter should write to D. J. Campbell, Librarian, Institute of Cancer Research, Royal Cancer Hospital, London, S.W.3, United Kingdom.

(420) INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION SYSTEM FOR METALLURGICAL LITERATURE

Largely owing to the suggestions of Professor Antonio Scortecci, vice-president of the Italian Association of Metallurgy, who considered that the ASM-SLA (American Society of Metals—Special Libraries Association) classification system for metallurgical literature might well be used as the basis for an internationally standardized system, the Special Libraries Association (U.S.A.) set up in 1952 an Interim Committee on Literature Classification, Metals Section. This Committee, whose functions are purely exploratory, reports that it has already contacted British, German and Italian institutes interested in the problem with a view to determining what is being done in other parts of the world and what is needed.

Typographic planning for typewriter composition. New York, International Business Machines Corporation, Department of Information, 590 Madison Avenue.

Contains practical information for cold type composition. It is designed to assist in transforming printing requirements to IBM (International Business Machines) Electric Executive Typewriter specifications and to define the terminology of printing and typography as it applies to typewriter composition. EXCHANGE
ÉCHANGE

HANDBOOK ON THE INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE OF PUBLICATIONS

A large number of libraries which return completed Unesco Library Questionnaires to the Clearing House for Publications offer their own publications in exchange for publications which they require. Owing to limitations of space the Bulletin can only publish a small number of these offers. However, the Handbook offers an excellent source of world-wide information about institutions and the publications which they offer for exchange. It is classified by subject and country with an index guide to each. Libraries can locate institutions offering publications of interest and effect direct exchanges. The Handbook can be purchased in local currency or with Unesco book coupons from Unesco sales agents which are listed on the back cover of each issue of the Bulletin.

MANUEL DES ÉCHANGES INTERNATIONAUX DE PUBLICATIONS

En renvoyant, dûment rempli, le questionnaire que l'Unesco leur avait adressé, nombre de bibliothèques offrent d'échanger leurs propres publications contre d'autres qui leur font défaut. Le Bulletin ne peut malheureusement, faute de place, publier qu'un nombre restreint de ces propositions. Rappelons donc que le Manuel constitue une excellente source de renseignements mondiaux sur les institutions qui peuvent participer à des échanges et sur les publications dont elles disposent à cette fin. Il est classé par matières et par pays. Un double index permet aux bibliothèques d'y trouver tous renseignements utiles sur les institutions qui offrent des publications qui les intéressent et d'effectuer ainsi leurs échanges directement. Le Manuel est en vente chez tous les agents généraux des publications de l'Unesco (voir page 3 de la couverture de chaque numéro du Bulletin*). Le règlement peut être effectué soit dans la monnaie du pays soit à l'aide de bons de livres Unesco.*
